City Victory Garden Plan Set to Start

'Clearing House' Formed By Committee for Renting Lots.

A garden "clearing house" through which Mansfield area residents may rent lots for victory gardens and list properties available for gardens will be established soon in the city under the program of the Richland County Victory Garden committee, County Agent George B. Ganyard secretary of the committee, said today.

As the committee's plans for boosting vegetable production in the city and county this year developed, training sessions for garden leaders will be established and bulletins providing information for gardeners will be available, Ganyard said.

Organized as a part of a state-wide program, the county garden committee is headed by John Kullman of Raemelton farms. Other members of the committee have been placed in charge of divisions of the project, including city school gardens, industrial plant gardens, city home and neighborhood gardens, school lunch gardens, seeds, plants and insecticides, and farm and village gardens.

Ganyard said the garden "clearing house" will have headquarters in Mansfield where persons with some spare garden space to rent and those who want to acquire gardens will be urged to register.

"In that way we will be able to get the best use from all gardens and available space for truck gardens in the city and county," he said.

Bulletins and information sheets on gardenening will be distributed soon to amateur gardeners at a number of points in the county, he added.

The sessions for training area garden leaders will afford instruction in the use of soils and fertilizers, control of insects and diseases, methods of cultivation and harvesting, and other topics gardeners want to know about, the county agent explained.

The project is expected to get under way within a few days to enable Richland countians who plan gardens to acquire their lots and obtain information on vegetable growing before garden time.

FIX BLAME

Officials Say Air Pocket Caused Clipper Crash.

LISBON - (U.P.) - Pan American Airway officials today blamed an air pocket for the crash of the Yankee Clipper in which 24 passengers and crewmen perished Monday night.

All but three of the 15 known survivors were out of danger. Four bodies have been recovered from the Tagus river, into which the Clipper plummeted while coming in for a landing, and authorities were dragging for those of the 20 missing persons.

Among those unaccounted for were Tamara, Russian-born American stage and night club singer, and two war correspondents, Ben Robertson, jr., 37, Clemson, S. C., on assignment for the New York Herald-Tribune, and Frank J. Cuhel, Cedar Rapids, Ia., of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

LONDON—(U.P.) -Cecil Frazier, 30, Newark, and Weldon Cox, Logan, were in Ohio penitentiary today with additional sentences of 10 to 25 years each after their 12-day crime spree since their escape from London prison farm.

They admitted to robbing a farm couple near Cedarville during their freedom and to forging checks and other robberies.

Mansfielders Sign Up for War Ration Book No. 2

Residents of the West Fifth street school district are seen registering at the school yesterday while others stand in line awaiting their turns. There were 1,097 registered at the school yesterday as against 856 signed there on the first day of rationing for book No. 1. Mrs. Obed Crownover, 356 West Fourth street, is shown (bottom) as she attempts to explain the new "point" book to young Johnny Dunajtsik, of the same address. Babies much smaller than Johnny are eligible for Book No. 2, the same as their parents. Ration authorities ask that new arrivals be registered for books within 30 days after their birth.

'Give Double' Plea Stressed At Red Cross Campaign Rally

As America sends men by the thousands to the fighting fronts, tasks of the American Red Cross increase accordingly and it rests on the "home front" to pave the way for carrying out those tasks successfully.

This was the message left last night with workers in the Red Cross War Fund campaign by Edwin T. Thayer, assistant Red Cross director at Fort Knox, Ky., as Richland county workers mobilized at the Legion home for the $59,000 county-wide campaign opening Monday.

"Red Cross duties have increased manifold but we believe that if the campaign slogan of 'Give Double' is really taken to heart by every individual, the Red Cross will be able to carry out the many services it performs to help the man at the fighting front," Thayer said.

More than 600 volunteer canvassers will start out early Monday to contact more than 20,000 persons named on pledge cards bearing the "Give Double" plea. The drive opens simultaneously in Mansfield, Shelby and in all rural Richland county sections. The goal is twice that of a year ago.

Thayer pointed out that in 1942, the Red Cross mobilized the resources of 3,750 chapters and 6,000 branches to help the families of 400,000 service men. He said

MARK VI TANK DETAILS BARED

British Say Nazi Giant Has 88-Millimeter Gun.

LONDON - (AP) — Details of the new German Mark VI tank now in operation in Tunisia were given today in British reports:

Weighing 55 to 60 tons, the Mark VI is armed with one 88-millimeter gun and two 7.92-millimeter machine-guns.

According to the British who have examined a captured Mark VI, a single round of ammunition for the big gun is three feet long and weighs 33 pounds. The gun itself weighs one and a half tons. The Mark VI is 20½ feet long, 12½ feet wide and 9½ feet high.

BUNDLE UP! COLD WAVE'S COMING

Weatherman Says Mercury's Going To Fall Tonight, Maybe to Near Zero.

Get your muffler out again and button up your overcoat, for there's a near-zero cold wave due to arrive in Mansfield and northern Ohio tonight.

Return of winter will be borne on strong winds probably bearing snow flurries, according to Ohio's official weather forecaster. The temperature drop will be to five to 10 degrees above zero in this area but slightly higher readings will be noted in southern sections of the state, the forecast says.

Darkening skies today followed several days of sunshine and unseasonable warm weather. High temperature during the last 24 hours was 61, with a low of 34 and an average of 47.5 as compared to an 18-year average of 29.2. The reading at noon today found the mercury still at 34 but with a rapid drop indicated. Mist and rain totaled .30 inch for the period.

During the warm spell frost left the ground almost entirely, observers said, with resultant impairment of traffic on unimproved streets, but it came as a boon to diminishing coal bins and fuel oil supplies.

Public school pupils, enjoying half-holidays this week due to the point rationing registration might welcome snow for sledding and ice for skating but otherwise Mansfielders generally have seen enough of Old Man Winter, many asserting he's been around much more than usual this year.

CHURCHILL RECOVERING

LONDON—(U.P.)- Prime Minister Winston Churchill's temperature has returned to normal and he is recovering rapidly from his illness, it was learned today.

VALID MARCH 16

Sugar Ration Stamp No. 12 Will Get You Five Pounds.

WASHINGTON (INS) - The OPA today announced that sugar ration stamp number 12 will become valid on March 16 and will be good for a five-pound ration of sugar through the end of May.

Stamp No. 11, good for three pounds, is valid from Feb. 1 to March 15.

OPA officials said the validating of coupon number 12 for five pounds of sugar would enable housewives to buy the product in the familiar five pound sacks and reduce the number of times that sugar must be bought at retail.

In addition, the OPA said, the move will save manpower by cutting nearly in half the number of packages that processors, wholesalers, retailers and consumers must handle.

60-Day Rabies Quarantine Goes on All Dogs Next Week

To guard against a rabies outbreak among dogs in a return of warm weather and a possible infection of persons with the malady, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, declared definitely today that a 60-day quarantine will be placed on all animals in Richland county next week.

At their meetings Saturday and Monday the county and city health boards will be asked by Dr. Wild to adopt resolutions providing for compulsory immunization of all dogs in the city and county.

Only animals to be excused from the quarantine will be those wearing heart-shaped tags furnished by the veterinary who vaccinated the dog, Dr. Wild said. Sanitary inspectors of the two departments and the county dog warden and other law enforcement officials will be asked to impound all stray animals at large without this immunization proof.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner has notified the health commissioner that the Ohio general code does not provide for mandatory immunization of dogs but does permit local boards to legislate such requirement.

Since Jan. 1 five dogs have died or been destroyed because they suffered of rabies. This is construed by health officials as an outcropping of the rabies epidemic prevalent in Mansfield last fall and as indicative of a widespread latent rabies germ in the city and county pets or watchdogs.

MAP PLAN FOR RATIONING OF OHIO LIQUOR

Legislators Order Bill Drawn Up For Card System of Whisky Sales.

STUDY ZONE PROGRAM

Investigator Reports New Violations of State Liquor Laws.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A plan of rationing to relieve Ohio's liquor shortage apparently has the favor of the house of representatives committee on liquor control.

The committee so indicated last night when, voting unanimously, it instructed a sub-committee to prepare legislation and have it ready within a week.

The sub-committee's draft will be a substitute for a bill introduced by Rep. Howard Metzenbaum (D-Cuyahoga) directing the liquor department to issue rationing cards for a 25-cent fee to persons 21 or older.

The substitute is expected to adhere closely to Metzenbaum's proposal. It was requested primarily to eliminate technical errors in the original bill.

Liquor Director Don A. Fisher told the committee that, while bootlegging has increased in states which have tried to ration whisky, his department was studying methods of identification and zoning for rationing.

If the liquor department can solve the problems, he added, it might offer a rationing program soon.

Other developments in the legislature:

The senate adopted a resolution urging repeal of federal restrictions on crop production in Ohio;

The house passed a bill authorizing counties to compensate farmers for poultry losses of more than $10 caused by dogs;

The house also voted to legalize the use of firearms by minors under 17 in rifle and pistol clubs, and

The house taxation committee recommended passage of a senate-approved bill extending the one-cent-a-gallon liquid fuel tax two years after rejecting amendments to ear-mark $6,000,000 of its revenue for highways.

Public Enemy Throws Away Gun Before Capture.

FORT WORTH, Tex. - - (U.P.) - Thomas (Pete) Norris, 31, public enemy No. 1, said today he "thought it wiser" to throw away his gun when a posse of 75 officers, aided by bloodhounds and an observation plane, captured him at his farm hideout.

Norris, his brother, Paul, 21, and a 19-year-old girl were taken into custody late yesterday after wrecking an automobile in an attempt to evade a carefully planned mantrap.

Pete, who was considered dangerous, was armed with a .30 calibre rifle and two .45 calibre pistols. For a moment, he told police, he thought he would use the guns, but thought better of it and threw them away.

Yanks, British Drive Armored Force to Hills

Chase Axis Army at Least 14 Miles Under Hail of Bombs From Allied Planes Into Kasserine Gap; Heavy Damage Reported.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—American and British troops, after a bitter three-day battle, have hurled Marshal Erwin Rommel's floodtide of armor back into the mountains of the Kasserine gap in central Tunisia under a hail of bursting bombs from hundreds of planes.

The German chieftain is in full retreat, field reports said today, after his tanks had surged to within three miles of Thala, key road junction to the upper plains of Kremamsa, and his battered armor was reported attempting to make a stand only three miles from the mouth of the twisting gap from which he sallied for his attempts to crack the Allied front in Tunisia.

(Rommel thus had been forced to drop back at least 14 miles from the highwater mark of his advance. Thala is 25 miles north of Kasserine. The Kasserine pass is five or six miles long and is northwest of Kasserine.

(Rommel still was 53 or 54 miles west of the starting point of his offensive at Faid pass, however.

(A Reuters dispatch from Allied headquarters said a battalion of about 1,000 Italians had been trapped in another pass, leading toward Siliana, about 70 miles northeast of Kasserine. French Moroccan troops let the Italians enter and then closed in, the dispatch said, while a Scottish regiment blocked another exit.)

An Allied headquarters communique said the backwash of the Rommel thrust began early yesterday after American and British forces had successfully stood off his attacks during three days of heavy fighting.

"Our infantry and armored units were in contact with the enemy throughout the day, inflicting heavy casualties, taking many prisoners and securing some abandoned enemy material," the communique said.

The Germans apparently were keeping their tanks near the mouth of the pass to cover their retreat against onrushing American and British armored forces and under the heaviest Allied air attack of the Tunisian war.

American troops attacking down the Hatab river from the west captured more than 300 German and Italian prisoners and enough small arms to equip an entire battalion.

With the coming of daylight Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, American air chief on the Tunisian front, threw almost every British and American plane at his disposal against the battered and retreating Germans.

They turned the road from Thala through the Kasserine valley, walled by 4,000 and 5,000-foot mountains, into a veritable hell of exploding bombs and machine-gun fire.

Even Flying Fortresses, usually used only for heavy bombardment of airfields and ports, joined in the attacks, smashing tons of bombs on the roads along which Rommel was attempting to withdraw.

Pilots of both the RAF and the PATH: Russians Cut Toward Kiev, Send New Thrust at Orel

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army has smashed a path deep in the northern Ukraine toward Konotop and Kiev with capture of three cities on a 42-mile front northwest of Kharkov, and has pushed another column to within 40 miles of Orel, the Russians announced today.

But in the Donets basin strong German counterattacks were noted in the Soviet early communique, while Soviet troops forging west of Rostov engaged in hand-to-hand fighting to occupy a fortified town.

The Germans concentrated large tanks and mobile infantry in the Krasnoarmeisk area north of Stalino, in the Donets basin, in an attempt to reestablish severed communications arteries, the war bulletin said.

"Our troops, however, are holding back the Hitlerite onslaught and causing them heavy losses," the communique stated.

(The Germans are throwing large aerial forces into the battle west of Rostov in an effort to halt the advance of Soviet troops in that region, the Russians said today in a noon communique recorded by the Soviet radio monitor in London.

In the Donets basin, the Russians declared, their troops southwest of Voroshilovgrad captured a number of towns and other units repulsed a 30-tank counterattack in the Krasnoarmeisk region with

HITS: Yanks Drop 3 Bombs on Large Jap Warship at Rabaul

(By Associated Press)

American Flying Fortresses were officially credited today with scoring three hits with 500-pound bombs on a Japanese cruiser or large destroyer in Rabaul harbor, New Britain, while other Allied warplanes blasted the enemy over a wide expanse of the southwest Pacific.

Attacking before dawn, amid tempestuous anti-aircraft fire, one of the U. S. bombers caught the Japanese warship with "really big ones" amidships, fore and aft.

"It just came up out of the water. They always do when you hit 'em like that," said the pilot, Capt. Paul J. Williams, of Norman, Okla.

Another Fortress dropped bombs within 25 feet of a 7,000-ton Japanese transport in the harbor at about the same time.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said United Nations airmen pounded the enemy airdrome at Koepang, in Portuguese Timor, shooting down two of 10 Japanese fighters which attempted to intercept; and attacked targets in Ataiikikun bay, at Lae, New Guinea, and at Toeal in the Kai Islands.

Low-flying Allied planes also forced the Japanese to withdraw from villages in the Mubo sector in northeast New Guinea, where

Noses Can Be Made Asset To Beauty

By MME. QUI VIVE

When a woman has a handsome nose, she knows it, and is proud of it. It is a splendid good looks asset, is the dominating factor in a lovely profile.

Young girls, given to nursing imaginary beauty defects have phobias about noses No beak suits exactly and precisely. A girl doesn't know what style she would like to have but she feels sure that what she has she doesn't want Yet noses line up pretty well, as far as outline and pattern are concerned.

They have their surface troubles A probiscis that shows dust-filled pores is an eye sore. Atmospheric soot is the cause. The excessively oily skin is more likely to suffer from this blemish than the dry one. Hence the need of using soap freely twice a day, rinsing afterwards with cold water to help pores to contract. An occasional dry cleaning with a moist cloth that has been dipped in eau de cologne will dig out the little deposits.

When large blackheads form to a raised point they should not be expelled with the fingertips, as a scar might result Get an extractor from your druggist, and use that. It is a steel instrument with a tiny circular opening which, placed over the point, will cause the wax like plug to emerge

Enlarged pores seem to prefer the nose to any other portion of the facial surface. When they are present it is wise to restrict the use of oily cosmetics, to substitute astringents or skin tonics. The free use of cold water is recommended It is believed that the texture of the skin is inclined to be coarse when the diet contains too much protein. It is a good idea to cut down on meats, to take tomato or orange juice every day, to have a green salad for luncheon or dinner.

The nose that carries a misplaced blush is a trying affliction If the blush comes and goes, is not a permanent fixture, apply ointment of zinc oxide every night after washing the face Spread on a thin film. No massage. Massage stimulates the tiny capillaries that produce the redness Keep the feet warm in cold weather. If redness is present all the time, an infection may be developing. In that event consult a physician who specializes in diseases of the skin and scalp

When powdering, don't force in the fluff stuff by heavy movements of the powder pad. Pores don't like that, and the result is not pretty. Powder should be applied lightly, the surplus removed with a camel's hair brush designed for the purpose.

The freckled nose can be substrained juice of a lemon with an dued by the free use of a mild bleach made by combining the equal portion of peroxide.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

IN THE CORRECT HAND

Practically every bridge player pays heed to the desirability of having the opening lead at No Trump come up to a guarded king instead of through it But only a very small percentage give any consideration to the importance of having the lead from the ideal direction when you have a guarded ace in one hand opposite a guarded queen in the other It the lead comes through the ace, you have two positive stoppers. If it is through the queen, up to the ace, you may have only a single one.

Notice how South steered the No Trump contract into North's hand instead of his own, in the second sequence above, by showing a mere spade preference on his second turn He did that because his stopper in the suit almost certain to be led, clubs, was the A. If it had been the K, he would have bid No Trump himself His mere preference showing in spades could not fool his partner much, if the latter had only a four-card suit, as he did not support it the first time, hence probably had only three

Where South was the No Trump declarer, the club J was led. This limited South to one stopper in the suit When he lost the lead in diamonds, the spade A put East in to run the setting tricks.

North had it easy to make his No Trump game. The club 10 was led covered by the J, and the Q won After the lead was lost to the diamond A the clubs were still stopped by the A. It was therefore no job at all to score two clubs, four diamonds and three hearts for game, solely because the right player was the declarer

Pitfalls of Love

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

At Noel's astonished question I had to change my plan of campaign on the instant. I must take him into the conspiracy, and I did not know how to explain that to my father.

It was my own fault that Noel had had time to finish whatever he had to do and come back before I finished telling Mary of my father's plan, which he especially wished to keep secret from her husband But now I must tell him at once, not knowing how he would react. I gave a signal to Mary which meant "Follow my lead strictly," and plunged into my revelation

"Come over here and sit down, Noel," I said "and I'll tell you at once what I mean, for I have to hurry back for dinner"

Tells of Spencer's Plan.

"If what I heard Mary say just now is true, Aunt Madge," said Noel, as he crossed the room slowly, "I feel like getting down on my knees in thanksgiving, but—something tells me there's a catch to it"

"There is," I said; "so listen quietly while I tell you. Here is the scheme," I said, then outlined my father's plan.

Noel said nothing until I had finished, then he asked quietly "Is that all?" Then at my nod of assent he sprang to his feet, his hands clenched

"And so Mary is to risk her career, which means most in all the world to her, in order that Steve Redfield may swagger around with assurance in his role? It's monstrous! I won't stand for it Tell your father he won't have to fake any accident for Mary I'll give Steve Redfield a real one that'll keep him in a hospital bed for a long time"

Mary was at his side in an instant, her hand laid solicitously on his arm.

"Don't, darling'" she said "It's all right. I shall be very glad to stay home for awhile Honest!'

"You can't possibly mean that,' he said incredulously "You know what your role means to you Why it's a role you created, and now they expect you to stand by and let an understudy mangle it"

I think I realized before Mary did that Noel was being very noble and self-sacrificing, really believing that Mary's career meant most to her, and that husband, home and possible children were sorry seconds to her love for the theater.

Noel's Old Bitterness.

I had not forgotten their colloquy when they had awakened from a drugged sleep Mary had quipped "It will be something to tell our grandchildren, won't it, Noel?' and he had replied, with what I feared was a touch of cynical bitterness, "If we ever have any it will be a good yarn" With a reproachful glance Mary had retorted merrily, "We'll have scads of 'em, regular Dionne family"

My heart had ached for him then because I sensed bitter frustration behind his words, but what lay behind my next words to him was the frantic necessity to get him calmed down before he should toss a very large monkey wrench into the machinery we were setting up to keep Stephen Redfield in his position, as a decoy for the rest of his subversive gang.

"Sit down, Noel," I said, "and let us talk this over quietly. I think I have the right to ask you that much."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Feb. 25.

A difficult and trying day, in which a full recognition of duties is the augury based on critical planetary aspects Although there is some sign of support or recognition from those in authority, yet this depends upon practical methods and procedures, with strict adherence to fundamentals.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which the culmination of critical issues may depend on personal ability There are dangerous grounds to be traveled, with a definite challenge to rectitude of behavior and action. Large obligations or responsibilities may be at stake

A child born on this day, while clever and shrewd may yet be erratic, irresponsible.

AUTO THEFTS DECREASE

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (UP) — Tire and gasoline rationing apparently has made auto stealing a less profitable field for thieves than in the past. Auto thefts during 1942 totaled 13,701, or 18 1 per cent less than in 1941, or 18 1 per cent less than in 1941, when they reached a high of 16,776.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO 45 INCOME OF FARMERS

Farmers which include livestock raisers fruit and truck growers poultry raisers and operators of plantations and ranches are liable for Federal income tax provided their income is sufficient to require the filing of returns Primarily due to the reduction in the credit for personal exemption many farmers will be liable for returns and to the tax for the first time for the year 1942

Farmers may maintain their records and file their returns of income on either cash receipts and disbursements basis or on the accrual basis of accounting A consistent method must however be employed If a cash basis is used Form 1040F Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses' is required to be filed out and filed in conjunction with Form 1040 Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of farmers who report income on the accrual basis A farmer who reports income on the cash receipts and disbursements basis (in which no inventories to determine profits are used) must include in gross income for the taxable year (1) the amount of cash or the value of merchandise or other property received during the taxable year from the sale of livestock or produce which was raised regardless of when raised (2) the profits from the sale of any livestock or other items which were purchased and (3) gross income from all other sources

Under the accrual basis in which inventories are used to determine the profits farmers gross profits are ascertained by adding to the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the end of the year the amount received from the sale of livestock and produce and miscellaneous receipts of income during the year and deducting from this sum the inventory value of livestock and produce on hand at the beginning of the year and the cost of livestock and produce purchased during the year All livestock whether purchased or raised must be included in inventory at their proper valuation Livestock acquired for draft breeding or dairy purposes and not for sale may be included in the inventory instead of being treated as capital assets subject to depreciation, provided such practice is consistently followed

If farm produce is exchanged for merchandise groceries or the like the market value of the articles received in exchange is to be included in gross income The value of farm products which are produced by a farmer and consumed by his family does not constitute taxable income Rents received in crop shares are to be returned as income as of the year in which the crop shares are reduced to money or the equivalent of money Proceeds of insurance such as hail and fire insurance on growing crops are required to be included in gross income

Amounts received as loans from the Commodity Credit corporation may at the option of the taxpayer be considered as income and included in gross income for the taxable year in which received The election once made is binding for all subsequent years unless the Commissioner approves a change to a different method of accounting Amounts received under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act as amended the Price Adjustment Act of 1938 section 303 of the Agricultural Adjustment act as amended and the Sugar Act of 1937 constitute taxable income to the recipients for federal income tax purposes

N THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

ASHINGTON—We were so successful in large mass production of automobiles in this coun- that we may have been thereby influenced to too heavily in war production on sheer size on gadgets.

hat, at least, is the view of some persons I d with the other day around the Grumman aft plants on Long Island. Their layout and methods are quite in contrast with Willow Run, to take the opposite extreme.

Clapper

Against the gigantic Willow Run plant, highly mechanized, the Grumman company has several relatively small buildings, not too many gadgets, but it gets out the planes. This company builds navy planes, and much of the Pacific air fighting has been done with Grummans. They produced several thousand combat planes last year and are eding the 1942 rate this year. The management it is better to get out planes, perhaps in more est numbers, than to be building plants to get planes in larger numbers some time later.

hat is an argument that has a good deal of rtance for Americans, and one that we ought onsider as a matter of long-run efficiency. uestions are being raised as to whether the to get the biggest production is to build the st plant, or whether the way to have the st production is to have the most gadgets. is the trouble at Willow Run. The plant was g it had to be located out in the country. le can't live close enough to the plant, so the problem is staggering.

he Grumman people built their plants on Island, scattering them around within a few of each other. The result is that 90 per cent of their labor comes from the county in which the plants are situated. Only 10 per cent commute to New York—and many thousand workers are employed.

This was a mushroom job, too. Grumman began with 300 workers and the personnel now runs into the tens of thousands. They say their absenteeism is under 2 per cent. I rode around the place with the general manager, L. A. Swirbul. Workmen greet him as "Jake." He was a marine in the last war, and makes fighters and torpedo planes for marines and navy flyers now.

Jake's pride is that our top aces are marines who fly his Wildcats—Capt. Joe Foss, the Guadalcanal hero, the all-time American ace with 28 Jap planes; Maj. John L. Smith, with 19; and Capt. Marion Carl, with 17. Jake's workers made the carrier planes that fought at Midway. He went out into the Pacific not long ago to see his stuff in action, to talk to the fliers who were using it, and to bring back the word and suggestions from them to the shops on Long Island.

Secondly, Grumman does not go in heavily for production gadgets. They use a human assembly line. When they want to move a fuselage on to the next working station, four men just pick it up and carry it over to another rack. As the ship under assembly becomes too heavy for that, they place it in a tube-steel cradle which can be rolled along by a couple of workmen whenever it is ready to be moved.

The Willow Run plant is built around an enormous assembly track, with big endless chains to be moved by elaborate underground power. The system is too elaborate and it has resulted in a one-model plant. To change you have to reconstruct the plant.

Nobody overlooks the advantages of large-scale production nor the time saved by machines. But they may be more effective, like a good many other things, when taken in moderation.

35 GIRLS DIE IN ORPHANAGE FIRE IN EIRE

Other Bodies Feared Left In Wreckage; Nuns, Police Aid Rescue Work.

(By United Press)

DUBLIN -- At least 35 young girls perished today in a fire which swept an orphanage at Cavan, 63 miles northwest of Dublin, and it was feared that the bodies of four or five others might lie in the smouldering wreckage.

The fire broke out at 2 a. m. while 82 girls ranging in age from four to 18 were asleep in the building. All children on the second floor were killed when the roof collapsed and buried them beneath flaming debris before they could escape.

Many girls ran screaming from the building, nightdresses ablaze. Thirteen were hospitalized, mostly for injuries suffered in jumping from windows. Four leaped nearly 40 feet.

Nuns and other rescuers who sought to enter the building were driven back by intense heat. Police and volunteers joined firemen in combatting the blaze and later in probing the ruins for the dead.

Reports from Cavan said the screams of the children trapped in the building brought nearly the entire population of the town running to the scene. Many women knelt in prayer in the street outside the building.

Some of the nuns who led the first children from the building had to be forcibly restrained from re-entering it.

The fire started in the rear of the orphanage and spread rapidly. Adjoining houses and shops were evacuated.

A day of mourning was declared in Cavan and all business places remained closed.

It was understood that the children at night were left in the care of lay servants, among them an 87-year-old woman who is among the missing. The nuns slept in an adjoining building.

42 INJURED AS SWITCH ENGINE RAMS 2 CARS

Service Men Are Casualties of Accident on Pennsy Near Wilmington.

(By United Press)

WILMINGTON, Del. — Forty-two passengers were injured late last night when a switch engine banged two passenger coaches into the rear end of the crack Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, "The Cavalier."

Most of the injured were members of the army and navy. All but six suffered only minor cuts and abrasions and were released from two Wilmington hospitals after treatment. Six were retained with serious injuries.

The 11-car Philadelphia section of "The Cavalier" had pulled into a siding at Wilmington's Pennsylvania station for the addition of two passenger coaches taken from another train.

Railroad officials said the switching engine banged these two cars into the rear of "The Cavalier," throwing their occupants violently out of their seats and damaging the cars and the rear car of the express. There were 52 persons in the two cars and the injured were all in these cars and the last car of "The Cavalier."

The vestibules of the two cars that were being added to the train were crushed inward and the last car of "The Cavalier" was derailed.

Among the injured were the train's fireman, A. T. Wood, 25, of Wilmington, and its conductor, M. A. Kiefter, 60, East Lansdowne, Pa.

The injured retained at hospitals were: Seaman Howard Trexler, 25, Philadelphia, spinal injury; Seaman Frank George, Philadelphia, spinal injury; Seaman Nicholas Polen, Williamstown, N. J., shock; P. A. Hamm, possible skull fracture; Bernard Moran, Norfolk, Va., fractured rib; S. T. Fox, fleet postmaster, New York, injured right shoulder.

The Philadelphia section of The Cavalier runs from Philadelphia to Cape Charles, Va., by way of Wilmington.

Seamon Moran described the accident as follows:

"I tried to pull the emergency cord but before I could touch it the other train crashed into us. After that there was just a lot of screaming and guys climbing over each other to get out. Our train was still moving when the other one hit us."

Of the injured, all but four were men.

AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

W YORK—The civilian manpower program is complete washout, incoherent, unworkable unenforceable and there is no indication that ame people who have made such a sorry job to date, operating under the same laws, ever be able to do any better. That is a dreary ate of the situation but it cannot be improved ishing or self-deception.

he government has made gestures and threats, indicating an intention to draft workers for essential jobs, including farm work, but in a few days these were shown to be meaningless and impetuous efforts to intimidate some workers and cajole others. A government, to command confidence and respect, should thoroughly consider its decisions affecting the freedom of the citizens and refrain from thoughtless or half-considered measures such as the recent one about the 48-hour

Pegler

When a government has to back down by loning some project which it has announced emphasis as a considered necessity, the people to doubt.

he war manpower problem is badly compli- not only by competition for men between rmed forces and war industry and between ndustry and the farms, but by a confusion of ies which are supposed to have authority in problems. The department of labor still but is barely in the picture and other auies, not directly constituted by law, are much important but in conflict with one another. mock-work system, a great man-wasting deshas been sustained by the supreme court but V. McNutt who is struggling to make the est possible use of manpower, apparently has gal authority for his favorite plan, which is eeze men out of nonessential jobs into essenworks with the alternative of being drafted ilitary service.

he issue of compulsory union membership has een met, except in one recent decision in an ed case, that a worker going into a closed plant must join the union, presumably with heir choice of entering the army.

In all this confusion, congress has failed but it is not too late for congress to restore the situation by passing laws to establish in a legal, forthright way the assurances which the people want and without which, notwithstanding their patriotism, they will resist or evade war work, accept it sullenly or appeal to habeas corpus if they should be drafted into the army for refusal to join unions.

For it is almost certain that a man ordered to join up as a fighter because he refused to join a union could take McNutt into court and tear his plan to pieces. McNutt may construe the selective service act to mean that he may use it to procure factory labor, but the most devious lawyer in the entire New Deal cannot construe it to mean that men must join unions.

The pathetic fact is that this obstruction has been caused by a few union politicians in Washington who, for years, have been used to having their way. The administration coddled them and congress gave them what they asked for in much the same spirit that other congresses cringed before Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Prohibition and Public Morals.

The American people are not unwilling to go into war work. Although the manpower problems of the fighting forces are carefully planned far in advance under clear laws establishing authority, the civilian manpower problem has been treated as something that would take care of itself. When this aimlessness resulted in a problem, congress still failed to do anything and left it to the bureaus of the government which not only had conflicting schemes but lacked laws and thus was compelled to resort to subterfuges.

McNutt and James Byrnes, the author of the mock-work opinion of the supreme court, are not happy in their situation. Obviously in their present troubles, they would be immensely helped and relieved by congressional action abolishing mock-work and establishing the individual's right not to join any union, because they are serving the administration, they will not speak out.

Congress can cure this. No bureau chief can do it. The administration can, but will not and the result is a great shortage of hands where they are needed, all for the lack of some plain laws, which would have the overwhelming approval of the people.

REVISES PLANS

Engineer Makes New Draft For Shelby Trailer Camp.

SHELBY - Boyd Wierman of Mansfield, city engineer, was in Shelby on Monday to revise the plans drawn up for the proposed Municipal Trailer camp.

The revised plans will call for a smaller utility building so that the estimated cost can be decreased from $2,300.

The camp is to be erected for the air force supply depot workers on the Municipal Water company grounds along State Route 61, north of the bridge. The utility building will house double toilets and showers.

Plans were reconsidered for the camp by city officials after it was learned that about 40 trailers would be brought here as soon as the building work is started on the depot later this month.

'BAN LIFTING CAME TOO LATE'

Experts Say Ohio Wheat Crop Already In Ground For This Year.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS - Suspension of wheat marketing quotas won't bring any immediate increase in the yield of the war-essential grain in Buckeye fields Ohio agriculture experts said today.

Commenting on the federal government's order removing limitations on wheat production, Elmer F. Kruse, state agricultural adjustment administrator, said the action came too late to increase materially the 1943 and 1944 crops in the state.

"Farmers in this state plant winter wheat—wheat that is seeded in the fall and harvested in June or July," he said. "What will constitute Ohio's 1943 crop already has been planted."

Dear John F. Cunningham of Ohio State university's College of Agriculture said any planting increase by Buckeye farmers next fall would depend on the price of wheat at that time and whether the government asked for increased production.

Kruse said the lifting of the ban on sale or use of grain produced in excess of government-fixed quotas would release approximately 1,000,000 bushels of Ohio's 1941-42 wheat now in storage.

Meanwhile, another Ohio farm leader called for removal of price ceilings on all agricultural products, asserting this would enable farmers to compete with industry in the labor field and maintain production.

Benjamin B. Burmley of McComb, O., president of the National Livestock Marketing association, urged removal of the price ceilings at a meeting of the Producers' Co-operative Commission Association, Inc., in Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday.

Up and Down THE STREET

When a deep rut suddenly developed in U. S. Route 42, just south of Mansfield last night one car was damaged and another nearly became involved in an accident, motorists reported to the sheriff's office. Apparently undermined by water and frequent thawing, the section of highway dropped several inches. One driver said the steering mechanism on his car was damaged when the car hit the rut, while another said he narrowly escaped an accident at the same place. Other complaints were filed with the sheriff who notified the state highway department.

REPORTS ON SEAMAN STORY

House Panel Finds 'Little Factual Evidence' Behind Solomons 'Strike.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON -- Without recommendation, the finding of a congressional probe of the story behind a story published by the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal to the effect that some merchant seamen had refused to unload cargo on Sunday at Guadalcanal lay before the house naval committee today.

In its report, a naval subcommittee which conducted the investigation concluded the news story was based on "broad general statements" with "very little factual evidence," but added the reporter who wrote it "may have had every reason to believe there might have occurred some sort of incident on Guadalcanal."

Noting that Navy Secretary Knox, Major Gen. A. A. Vandegrift who headed ground forces on Guadalcanal at the time, and Admiral William F. Halsey had advised the committee they had no knowledge of any such incident, the report went on to say merchant ships of other Allied nations also entered the Guadalcanal are but "the conduct of their crews was not subject to our investigation x x x."

The committee deplored that "a story of this grave nature" should have been published "during a time of war when the co-operation of the merchant marine and the navy is most essential."

The report said testimony indicated the story grew out of interviews with several service men whose names the paper declined to reveal, and the mothers of other men who had been on Guadalcanal. However, it expressed the opinion such statements "were not factual but were merely generalities regarding something these men may have heard or a story going the rounds x x x."

Ponder the implications, if you will. How will a headwaiter know whom to favor, whom to snub, when patrons arrive together after having all made their way from the East 51st station of the Lexington avenue IRT? w will a Park avenue hostess feel about g to say "Hold a ringside table for us. Mayor LaGuardia's radio talk a couple of Sundays ago, in which he spilled the beans about shoe rationing and started a run on the available supply, should be noted with appreciation by politicians all over the country. True it did cause some hoarding, but from an office-holder's point of view, an even more significant thing happened.

It increased every politician's chances of getting a big radio audience. Citizens are likely to make a habit of listening to political speeches, just on the chance that sooner or later another such slip will occur.

It probably won't but a lot of taxpayers will live in hopes and sit through ever so much pointing-with-pride and viewing-with-alarm, just to catch it.

This will be news to Mansfield Provident Loan softballer Arlene Peters. Pete can thank a pair of bed posts for her continued top rank in the northern Ohio women's handicap bowling tournament singles at Tiffin.

Linsz Recreation keglerettes of Cleveland invaded Tiffin last week-end, all set to take over full charge of the tournament lists, and they darn near did it too.

In fact, as a team, they are in first place in the Tiffin joust with the stratospheric total of 2866 pins.

The Linsz star performer, and captain, Evelyn Ricard climbed into first place in all-events with an 1818 mark.

And she was heading for the lead in singles too, until those 7-10 bed posts popped up in the tenth frame of her last game, leaving her eight pins off Pete's pace, and tied for second with Dorothy Holden of Toledo.

Which inspires a short, short pome, complete on one page:

Was Levelin'.

Yes, Pete still paces the singles with 638, and she still claims credit for the highest single game rolled in the tourney, 254, without handicap.

But other Mansfield names dropped off the board like leaves off the tree in a brisk November breeze. Still hanging on are Kay's Shoppe girls way down in ninth place in the team standings, while Florence Handwark and Mary Dintaman dropped to a fourth place tie in doubles.

Add to your list of undefeated Mansfield gridiron Tygers in armed service the name of Bill Bermuin tackle, who has been in the army air force since Jan 11

Sue Humphrey made a clean sweep of scoring honors with a 544 total and 211 game.

Report Camilli To Boss Dodgers

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— A report that Dolph Camilli, star first baseman of the Dodgers, has already signed a contract to manage the Brooklyn club this season if Leo (The Lip) Durocher is inducted in the army was published today by the San Francisco Examiner.

In any event the Examiner story said Camilli will definitely be with the Dodgers in 1943. The story added that the contract was signed last Saturday when Camilli and Dodger President Branch Rickey conferred in San Francisco and contains two conditions:

If Durocher enters the army, Camilli will be named to succeed him; if Durocher is not inducted, Camilli will return to his position at first base and retain his capacity as field captain.

Terms of the contract will be announced by Rickey, the Examiner said, "after Durocher is inducted in the army." This is expected to be about March 1 provided the Lippy One passes his physical examination.

The Examiner said it had learned from sources close to Camilli that he will receive the same salary as in 1942—in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Just to start an argument, Francis Albertanti, who hasn't missed a major sports event since Ben Brush won the Derby, started the other day to pick the best fighters he has seen in each weight class . . . He started with Jack Johnson . . . "Joe Louis might hit him in a couple of months' of swinging"—and the argument started, too . . . Nat (Mr. Boxing) Fleischer agreed on Johnson because of his cleverness though he though of Jack Dempsey for a while and Ed Van Every, veteran boxing scribe, chimed in that he's seen 'em clear back to Corbett and he still liked Louis.

TAKE YOUR PICK

Here's the way they picked them for the other classes: Albertanti—Light heavy, Bob Fitzsimmons; middleweight, Stanley Ketchall; welterweight, Joe Walcott; lightweight, Joe Gans; featherweight, Abe Attell; bantamweight, Terry McGovern; flyweight, Pancho Villa . . . Fleischer—Harry Greb, Walcott, Benny Leonard. Attell, McGovern Wilde . Van Every—Tommy Loughran, Greb, Walcott, Leonard, Johnny Dundee, George Dixon and Wilde.

REE LTROUBLE

DeWitt Mackenzie, the (AP) war analyst, also is a top-rank angling addict so on the first stop of his recent globe-girdling tour he stopped in Hardy's famous London fishing tackle establishment and bought a trout reel . . . Then Mackenzie proceeded to lug the reel for some 30,000 miles, all the while fearing that it would be taken away from him at every border as a suspicion . . . Now that he's home, what with gas rationing, etc., the question is what is Mackenzie going to do with it.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Hal Wood, Twin Falls (Idaho) Times-News: "If the war keeps up and the feminine side takes over sports reporting, the boys who make the All-Star team will be the ones who have the prettiest curls, the best color combinations on their suits—and who look like good jitterbugs."

Phillip Nears Scoring Honor

Conceded Hoop Crown In Big Ten Campaign.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Big Ten's individual basketball scoring championship was conceded today to Andy Phillip, the brilliant University of Illinois forward.

Phillip's record-setting pace of 199 points in 10 contests gives him a commanding lead over the field as the campaign moves into its final stage. Although he has played two less games than runner-up Ralph Hamilton of Indiana, Phillip has a 42-point lead over the Hoosier star.

Phillip's scoring championship, the seventh to be won by an Illinois player, moved the Champaign school into second place among the conference teams in the matter of supplying the point-making kings.

Purdue, which has had such standout scorers as Johnny Wooden, Norm Cotton, Bob Kessler and Jewell Young is well entrenched in first place. The Boilermakers have had 11 of their cagers set the pace.

Until this season Illinois was tied for the runner-up spot with Chicago, each with six scoring leaders. Phillip broke that deadlock. Back of the Maroons the conference schools trail in this order for point-making champions, Wisconsin four, Northwestern three, Minnesota, Ohio State and Indiana two each and Michigan and Iowa one each.

Cards Advertise For Ball Players

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, once owners of one of the most extensive minor league "farm" systems in baseball, today advertised for players for their Class AA, B and D clubs.

"Cardinal organizations need players," reads an ad in the current issue of the Sporting News, baseball weekly.

The Cardinals, says the advertisement, "have positions open on our AA, B and D classification clubs."

Cardinal President Sam Breadon said a great majority of the club's minor league players have gone into military service or war production work, creating a manpower shortage among the club's minor league teams.

The disbandment of many minor league for the duration has resulted in a drastic reduction of Cardinal minor league holdings. Before the war the Cards owned or had working agreements with approximately 30 clubs. Today, they have only six such teams under their wing.

Duration Title Won By Bivins

Cops One Crown, Goes After Another One.

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Only one fight separated Jimmy Bivins today from a pair of "duration" ring titles.

The dusky Clevelander, who is able to adjust his poundage for either the 175-pound or heavyweight divisions, annexed Matchmaker Larry Atkins' light heavy duration championship by decisioning Anton Christoforidis in a 15-rounder at the arena last night.

Bivins is listed for a Madison Square Garden tussle March 12 with Tami Mauriello of New York. This match has been termed an effort on the part of Mike Jacobs to crown an interim heavyweight champion in the absence of Joe Louis. Bivins already owns one decision over Mauriello but the March 12 affair is for keeps.

The Clevelander's scrap last night with Christo the Geek was a gruelling contest but devoid of any knockdowns. Referee Jackie Davis and both judges agreed on the verdict which prompted a thunderous chorus of boos.

The Associated Press scorecard granted Bivins nine rounds, awarded Christo five and listed one, the first, as even.

Bivins, at 174 pounds, had a five and one-half pound advantage over the hard-working Greek.

Christo was wounded below the left eye and on the nose at the finish, but his willing efforts caught the fancy of the spectators.

The fight established a new indoor attendance record. Paid attendance was announced as 13,764 and produced a gross gate of $40,986.

Hershey Captain Wins Point Title

(By Associated Press)

Walt Kilrea, captain of the pennant-bound Hershey Bears, is the holder of the American Hockey league's individual scoring record.

Kilrea drew two assists last night as the Bears walloped the Providence Reds, 7-2, while the Pittsburgh Hornets and Washington Lions battled to a 5-5 overtime tie in the circuit's only other contest.

The two assists brought Kilrea's point total to 79, two more than the previous record established by Pete Kelly while performing for the Springfield Indians last season.

WRIGHT COPS NOD

ST. LOUIS — (INS) — Chalky Wright, Los Angeles Negro, today held a 10-round decision over Joey Peralta, Tamaqua, Pa., lightweight.

COMBINES BUSINESS WITH BUSINESS

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Mel Harder believes in combining business with business. Working as an expediter for the Ohio Rubber company of nearby Willoughby, Harder signed his contract to pitch for the Cleveland Indians with the assertion that he could "do a lot of work" on his days off and while traveling. "We have material sources all over the country," he said.

POPULATION MAY DROP IN BRITAIN

LONDON—(AP)—Possibility that England may have a population of only 27,000,000 in 2003, against today's 47,000,000, is among suppositions expected to be raised in connection with the debate on the Beveridge plan.

These estimates are made by some experts on the basis of current trends in births and these men regard the falling birth rate as one of the major problems that must be realistically dealt with if the Beveridge or any other long-term social security plan is to have any genuine success.

HE SAYS IT'S LACK OF GLAMOR BUT SHE SAYS IT'S GOLF SCORE

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES Edwin R. Monroe, an aircraft executive, sued for divorce on grounds that his wife lacks glamor, as the defense introduced Mrs. Monroe as exhibit A.

Smartly dressed in a chic suit, off-the-face hat and mink coat, the petite but plump brunet convinced the neighbors but not her husband.

"She looks better today than she usually does," he said.

Neighbors countered his statement.

"We consider her a very glamorous neighbor," Mrs. Margaret Rettberg testified.

Monroe contended that his wife took no interest in her appearance and dressed below her station in life. Mrs. Monroe, who seeks a reconciliation, said her husband wants a divorce because she plays a better game of golf.

"I asked him what he did all that time, and he said he went to lodge meetings or played golf. So I went golfing with him twice.

"But after I beat him both times, he left me at home. The last time, he quit on the seventh hole."

ENROLL 10,000 FOR RATIONING

Applications For Food Books Continue in City; County Starts Tomorrow.

the opening day's registration was due to a lack of "consumer's declaration forms," a copy of which appears on page 14 of this edition of The News-Journal.

Ration officials urge consumers to fill out these forms in advance of their application for the point books since a sufficient number of the forms is not on hand at the schools. A rush order went out yesterday for printing 20,000 more forms, but even this number will fall far short of the number of registrants expected. More than 60,000 books are expected to be issued in Richland county before the deadlines Friday.

Those failing, for any reason, to register during this week's period for book No. 2 will be unable to do so until after March 15, C. C. Beelman, ration chairman, warned.

Meanwhile the Office of Price Administration today ordered a sharp cut in the amount of rationed food served in restaurants, hotels and other eating establishments throughout the nation. No institution will be eligible for more than 80 per cent of the amount of food they used in December, 1942.

Madison township residents were notified that there would be no registration at Madison schools with schools in East Mansfield, Lincoln Heights and Woodville registrations serving the township. All Mifflin township residents will be registered at Center Hall school. Hours at these schools follows the all-county schedule of 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Thursday and Friday. Registrations will be held at all other schools in the county.

Mansfield ration officials adopted a new policy today concerning "lost" ration books of all kinds, Chairman Beelman announced. Owing to the increasing numbers of lost ration books, both the No. 1 sugar-coffee-shoe coupon book, as well as gasoline supply books, drastic measures have been taken requiring such losers to file an affidavit of the loss and advertising it in a newspaper three consecutive dates.

Believing that many such "losses" might be averted, Beelman said a similar measure concerning the affidavit and advertising policy adopted by eastern states had provided a remedy.

Other warnings sounded by Beelman included those to persons who have not turned in ration books of members of their family inducted into services or committed to institutions. Likewise, he stated, persons discharged from service or released from institutions, may make application for books at the board office.

A new order today revealed that fruits and vegetables canned with the consumer's own sugar, or stored in community lockers, need not be declared on the consumer's application.

Here's how yesterday's registration figures in Mansfield compared with those for book one, with the first set of figures representing the first day's registrations for book one, and the second figures yesterday's totals:

Bowman 1,843—2,052; Brinkerhoff 854 - 1,198; Bushnell 571—647; Carpenter 888—1,063; Hedges 1,050—1,242; Newman 891—905; Prospect 775—610; Western avenue 802—1,007; West Fifth 856—1,097; Western avenue 438—508.

Crowds were heaviest in the afternoon hours, teachers in charge of the registrations reported, with evening's registrations the lightest. Ration officials had asked that all who could avail themselves of the afternoon hours keeping the evening hours as free as possible for workers who could come no other time.

ROMMEL IN FULL RETREAT BEFORE ALLIES

Yanks and British Drive Axis Column Back Under Hail of Bombs.

American airforce report great damage was done to the retreating forces.

It appeared that Rommel had suffered the greatest losses the Germans have met in Tunisia

Fortresses, twin-motored Marauders and Mitchells and Bostons all joined in the devastating attacks on the Kasserine, Sbeitla and Feriana areas. Hurricane bombers, Lightnings, Airacobras and Spitfires were among the "light stuff" which poured machine-gun and cannon fire into trucks and then raked roadside ditches for hiding Germans.

Formation after formation attacked the Kasserine and Sbeitla areas, with the Fortresses first laying neat strings of bombs along the roadsides and Marauders, Mitchells and attack planes following.

Even outside the battle area one convoy of 20 German vehicles on the Feriana road was blasted to splinters.

Eight Allied planes were lost in these assaults, in raids on Bizerte and the air base at Kairouan and in sea sweeps in which five barges carrying motor transports were sunk.

Marshal Rommel continued to probe the Allied lines to the northeast of the Kasserine sector, however, and made one attack west of Ousseltia. This was repulsed, the communique said.

Improved weather conditions permitted the Allied air force to swing into action on a large scale yesterday, and bombers and fighters slashed at the extended German columns beyond the Kasserine gap and attacked enemy supply lines in the rear.

The pass itself was under almost ceaseless attack by bombers and fighters and many enemy vehicles were reported destroyed there before reaching the field of battle. Six tanks and ten trucks were reported destroyed Monday by Boston bombers.

As the ground fighting died down at least temporarily some observers suggested Rommel might be forced to abandon Kasserine Pass itself as the result of the severe punishment taken by his troops and equipment.

It was pointed out also that Rommel was racing against time because, sooner or later, he would have to send some of his tank strength south to deal with the British Eighth army, which was reported building up its attacking strength in the shadow of the Mareth line with great rapidity.

Some observers said the Germans had thrown almost everything they had in Tunisia into the offensive. The total number of enemy tanks involved was estimated at 220.

(The German radio reported last night that 4,016 Allied prisoners had been taken and 253 tanks captured during the first eight days of the Axis offensive in central Tunisia. More than 3,000 of the prisoners were said to be Americans.)

U. S. Combat Team Set To Hammer Rommel

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTHERN TUNISIA — (INS) — An American ground and air combat team was ready today to hammer new blows at enemy forces which it drove off the plain of Hata and back into Kasserine pass Tuesday after a three-day battle.

From a high perch at Djebel Hata, 15 miles northwest of Kasserine pass, this correspondent watched American medium bombers deliver one of the final punches which prompted the Germans and Italians to decide to move back into the protection of the pass from which they gingerly poked their noses Saturday.

At sundown Tuesday reports coming into the combat force headquarters from reconnaissance patrols indicated that the few remaining enemy vehicles left on the plain were scurrying back to the pass as rapidly as possible.

German and Italian prisoners taken can be counted in the hundreds, enemy tanks and armored cars knocked out or abandoned on the scores. A substantial number of guns, supplies and ammunition were captured.

Nazis Claim Sinking Of 17 Allied Ships

(By Associated Press)

A German high command communique asserted today a group of German submarines in an attack on a strongly-protected convoy in the Atlantic sank 17 ships totalling 104,000 tons and in addition torpedoed three steamers.

The date of the attack was not given and there was no confirmation of it from Allied sources.

Italy Reports U. S. Raid On Messina

(By Associated Press)

The Italian high command reported today American four engined bombers attacked Messina, Sicily, and caused considerable damage to buildings. Eight persons were killed and 32 injured, said the communique.

The war bulletin claimed two of the bombers were shot down into the sea by Axis fighters.

On the Italian mainland, it said, trains and railway stations were machine-gunned in the Catanzaro district while bombs fell near Curino.

Axis planes bombed Tripoli and Algiers, it was announced.

Whitlatch was discharged from the army Feb. 12.

Uncovers More Liquor Violations

CLEVELAND—(INS)— B. S. Ashworth, special investigator for Acting Liquor Director Don A. Fisher, today uncovered more violations of state liquor laws as the probe into sales records of Cuyahoga county liquor stores continued.

Assisted by Plain Dealer reporters, Ashworth brought to light irregularities in the state store at Shaker Square. In several instances there had been but one sales slip made out for each 12-bottle case of whisky investigators revealed. They also reported that on Feb. 11 there were 40 cases of domestic whisky sold for which no sales slips were made out, or for which non-existant names were signed.

In addition to deviations in the correct and legal method of signing sales slips Investigator Ashworth discovered that many sales slips at the Shaker store had been destroyed. The law requires that these slips be kept until their destruction is authorized by the state.

Twenty-four persons are believed to have lost their lives in the crash of the Pan-American clipper plane (shown above) in the Tagus river at Lisbon, Portugal. Among those rescued from the plane were the skipper, Capt. R. O. D. Sullivan (below, at left), and Jane Froman, radio singer (below, at right). The nurses are trained to operate with aerial ambulances which carry thirty casualties each from battle zones. Each plane carries a nurse and an enlisted technician.

Ohio Women Asked For Five Times as Much Kitchen Fat

COLUMBUS (AP) Ohio's housewives must increase fivefold their collection of kitchen fats for use in the manufacture of explosives if the state is to attain its goal for the six months of 1943, the state salvage committee asserted today.

Robert O. Weible executive secretary of the committee, reported to Gov. John W. Bricker collections of 1942 totaled 1,635,072 pounds, compared to a goal of 6,198,000 pounds for the first six months of this year.

"The most spectacular job on the home front is to get tanks, guns and planes made," Weible asserted. "But it won't be much use to roll out the weapons if we don't have the fire power to make them shoot."

"So we have the job of getting out the ammunition, too. Our war machine demands more glycerine daily. We must depend more and more upon the housewives of America saving their kitchen greases and fats."

eleven enemy tanks disabled or burned out.)

Operations in the Ukraine carried the Russians into Sumy, a rail junction 100 miles northwest of Kharkov, 75 miles east of Konotop, and 195 miles east of Kiev; into Akhtyrka, 42 miles south of Sumy, and into Lebedin, about halfway between Sumy and Akhtyrka and only 175 miles east of Kiev.

A German garrison on the approaches to Lebedin was annihilated when it refused to surrender, the war bulletin said.

The forces at Akhtyrka provided a pincers 50 miles northeast of Poltava, with another pincers 50 miles southeast of the rail junction city, which was the scene of the victory Peter the Great scored over the Swedish armies in 1709—a battle from which Russia emerged as a European power.

The advance toward Orel on the Red army's 25th anniversary had carried into Maloarkhanglesk, 40 miles south of Orel and an equal distance north of Kursk.

(The Germans reported the Russians had broadened the Orel front north and northeast of the city, but claimed they were dealing heavy damage to the Soviet troops.

(A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said it was reported the Germans had switched 22 divisions from France, Belgium, Norway and Germany to the eastern front in the last 24 hours.)

(The German high command said 10,000 Russians were killed in heavy fighting north of Orel during "vain Soviet attacks." The communique said Russian drives in the Caucasus, Donets basin, southwest of Kharkov and west of Kursk were frustrated and a Soviet motorized guard corps wiped out on the Mius river west of the Donets basin.

that there are now 3,000 persons in the Red Cross personnel serving in this country and overseas.

"We have sent several hundred messages to, and inquiries about, persons in war affected areas," he stated. "This service is available to any one having relatives in any of the occupied nations."

He said that the Red Cross has established 31 blood donor centers and 39 mobile collecting units in this country.

"The Red Cross has distributed more than 500,000 packages of food to prisoners of war, and has loaned approximately $2,000,000 to service men for emergency needs."

Thayer speaks tonight at a rally for Shelby Red Cross workers. It is being arranged by Raymond Pugh. He addressed pupils at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school this morning.

L. W. Birch, War Fund chairman, pointed out to the workers that of the $59,000 expected to be raised here, one-third or approximately $20,000 would be retained by the Richland chapter. The balance goes to national headquarters and much of it returns to the county chapter in the form of materials to be made into clothing and supplies for the armed forces.

Part of the money also goes into the disaster emergency relief fund. In the event of a major disaster in Mansfield or vicinity, national headquarters would allocate whatever money is needed for disaster relief in the afflicted area, he said.

Allen Bond, chapter chairman, commended the volunteer workers and praised especially those who came from rural districts to attend the mobilization meeting.

He emphasized the importance of meeting the campaign quota in the 15 days between March 1 and March 15. The Richland chapter is hopeful of meeting the goal 15 days ahead of the close of the national drive which ends March 30.

Miss Miriam Hopper, executive secretary, and Miss Esther Barnett, home service secretary, spoke concerning the many activities being carried out by the Richland chapter.

Campaign supplies were distributed among the workers and at the close of the meeting the Red Cross canteen unit served refreshments. A highlight of the program was a vocal solo, "Angels of Mercy," by Mrs. Charles Anglin.

YANKS HIT BIG JAP WARSHIP

Drop Three Bombs on Craft as Fliers Range Over Wide South Pacific Area.

General MacArthur's forces are slowly driving toward the big enemy base at Salamaua.

On the Burma front, RAF bombers carried out widespread attacks on five Japanese-occupied towns, while Japanese planes made an ineffective raid on the U. S. army airdrome northeast of Assam, India.

Casualties were light and no material damage was caused at the American base, it was announced.

Reinforcements Rushed To Pacific

WASHINGTON —(INS)— American reinforcements and supplies today are moving in a widening stream to the south and southwest Pacific war zones to insure U. S. superiority in the next major clash with the Japanese, which may come at any time.

Meanwhile American and United Nations airmen from Australia and the Guadalcanal area are continuing their sky offensive to knock out enemy bases in the central and northern Solomons and New Britain.

Details about U. S. supply movements are secret, but dispatches from the south Pacific disclosed that another American convoy was attacked by Jap planes off Guadalcanal Feb. 17 but were beaten off when five of the eight enemy craft were destroyed.

A similar Jap aerial attack on Jan. 29 resulted in the sinking of the U. S. cruiser Chicago, which was protecting a convoy heading for Guadalcanal.

Chungking Has Second Raid Alert

CHUNGKING —(INS)— The second air alert in two days was sounded in Chungking at noon today when 12 Japanese planes were sighted heading in the direction of the Chinese provisional capital.

The alarm was given after the dozen enemy craft were observed over Frengchih, in eastern Szechwan province northeast of Chungking. Later another force of 14 Japanese planes were reported in the same locality.

None of the hostile planes reached Chungking.

Another force of 18 Jap craft appeared over Liangshan and four of the planes dropped their bomb loads.

New Zealand Offers Permanent Bases

WASHINGTON —(INS)— New Zealand Minister Walter Nash today made known the willingness of his country to grant the United States permanent air and naval bases.

Nash said New Zealand stands ready to grant the United States the permanent right to use it air and naval bases as part of a lasting mutual defensive system in the Pacific.

New Zealand thus becomes the first of America's Pacific Allies to offer the United States permanent air and naval facilities on a reciprocal basis.

The New Zealand offer also is the first response of any of the Allies to the demands in congress that the United States obtain without delay the perpetual right to strategic defense bases in the Atlantic and Pacific in return for American lend-lease aid.

WAVES, Civilians Mail Out $52,000,000 Monthly In Dependents' Checks.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — A remodeled five-story building in the heart of Cleveland, once serving millions of department store shoppers, today serves the dependents of Uncle Sam's sailors.

The building houses the navy department's huge field branch of the bureau of supplies and accounts, which handles authorized deductions from every navy paycheck, officer or enlisted man, ashore or afloat.

Each month some 2,000 employes, including trim-looking WAVES as well as civil service workers, prepare and mail out approximately $52,000,000 in allowances and allotments to parents, wives and other dependents of navy men.

Before the navy leased the building and opened the field branch several months ago, it had been vacant for 14 years — ever since the Higbee company, one of Cleveland's largest department stores, moved to a new location.

Chief of the field branch is Rear Admiral F. E. McMillen, a veteran of nearly 45 years service with the navy and a classmate of Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the Pacific fleet.

During his rise from a midshipman in 1904, Admiral McMillen has served on everything from a 420-ton destroyer to a battlewagon. He wears the Victory, Vera Cruz Occupation, Expeditionary, Haitian and American Defense Service medals.

On one floor of the building where once was stocked women's dresses and lingerie, today there are hundreds of girls operating complicated business machines which pay family allowances to dependents of enlisted men with amazing speed and accuracy.

This family allowances division now mails out approximately $17,000,000 monthly in checks to parents, wives or to any dependent person specified by enlisted men.

On another floor, where men's suits, shoes and overcoats used to line racks and shelves along the wall, there are hundreds of other workers paying out allotments from officers' and enlisted men's paychecks—not only to relatives but also to savings banks, insurance companies and for purchases of war savings bonds. The total sum paid out by this division is approximately $34,500,000 each month.

Commander Morris Smellow, in charge of the allotments division, was aboard the U. S. S. Marblehead which survived a Japanese bombing attack in the south Pacific just about a year ago. The Japs scored several hits on the cruiser.

Marine guards are posted in the lobby of the building to prevent intruders, or possible fifth columnists, from gaining access to valuable records.

A non-employe, civilian or navy man, must be approved before he is admitted, and then he must have an orange-colored button or a yellow pass-badge to wear at all times.

REJECTS 'FEE'

Industry Turns Down Petrillo Bonus Plan on Recordings.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The recording and transcription industry has rejected a proposal of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) that the industry pay the union a cash fee for every record made for public use.

Industry representatives said yesterday in a letter to James C. Petrillo, union head, the companies declared the proposal was a "startling new kind of social philosophy for both industry and labor" requiring the authority of congress before it could be put into effect.

The fee system had been described by Petrillo as the union's terms for ending its seven-months ban under which union members are prohibited from making transcriptions and recordings for public use.

ow it was the new year, 1941.. in February. It was r when the whole country air of marking time, and dy said we'll be in the war e months, or they said it now but we don't know ey said it's not our war ll never get into it. The on of the Lend-Lease bill on in Washington, and the aphs of London in the pic- gazines showed fires and walls and sidewalks leep in rubble.

He couldn't convince himself that these little draftees with the downy chins were better than he was, or stronger, or more able to fight, if it should come to fighting; and certainly he knew they weren't more willing.

Most of the men he talked to, his own contemporaries, felt the same way — always excepting those who dismissed the whole problem as though it were no problem. The others thought about it a lot, and discussed it, and wondered what to do; and Hobey was of those who wondered increasingly, for himself; and he knew that sooner or later he would have to do something, if only because he couldn't bear this sense of uselessness indefinitely. "Here's the world going to hell in a wheelbarrow," he said to Rosalie. "—and what am I doing, please? I'm holding sponsors' hands, and listening to screwball women sounding off about children's programs, and fighting with politicians who want more time on the air than they deserve —and while I admit you ought to get medals for all that, I'd still like to be doing something a little more constructive, at the moment. Something just a touch more germane to the situation, shall we say."

He did minor, secret things about it, to make himself feel better. He bought an ambulance for Britain; he contributed to various causes that seemed right to him; he helped on one or two committees. He rounded up entertainers for a service men's organization, and supplied the beer and cigarets for the weekly parties they gave for the boys. Once he acted as a blood donor, having discovered that the Red Cross blood bank was for the navy now, and finding that fact appealing. He had to wait his turn, the day he went; and waiting with him on the benches at the hospital, outside the cubicles where they were doing the work, there were two young sailors, both of whom were here for the same purpose. They had arrived together, and then one of them had been rejected as a donor because he was under age—he was nineteen, and you had to be twenty-one—and he was still grumbling about it. He said to Hobey, "If I'm old enough to be in this man's navy, I should think I'd be old enough to give 'em a little blood." The other gob was twenty-two, and he had been accepted, and he was smug towards the first one. He was also pleased to learn—it seemed he hadn't until he came—that this was the navy's blood bank, and not for the British as it had been till lately. He said, grinning, "Well, that's fine. Maybe I'll get my own blood back."

Hobey somehow found this a haunting little episode, and there were others like it, happening all the time. You had a constant sense of Here-it-is-again—a feeling of inevorable repetition—of living in the past and in the present simultaneously. Rosalie felt it too, and was emotional about it, and once or twice she wept at newsreels, or at headlines, saying she couldn't bear it. There was a phrase that was inevitable; their own generation's phrase. "This is where we came in." That was the thing; that was the feeling.

But it seemed to Hobey that you could go on from here, you could and must find tangents from the rounded circle that were right for you, and that would take you on into the future that was coming. You couldn't just sit still and feel complete, linked with the past again. This was no end, but a beginning-over.

He said to Rosalie, "You know what I could do? I even might do it, at that. They need civilian experts in the navy's public relations department — radio men, among others. It seems I did my profession an injustice, when I was sounding off to you the other day. It seems I might turn out to be a useful citizen after all."

He told her a little more about it, and Rosalie listened, and watched his face; and at the end she said, "How serious are you about this?"

"Well—fairly. In fact, quite. I wanted to know what you thought."

"You'd be in Washington," Rosalie said reflectively, "—or would you be here?"

"In Washington."

"Then it would mean giving up your own work entirely, wouldn't it?"

"For the duration — yes, it would."

"You wouldn't mind that?"

"It will probably break me," Hobey said equably, "what with Reno, and one thing and another. But I don't care, if . . ."

He stopped short. He had almost said, "—if you don't." And the time for saying that had not quite come yet; and anyway, he knew she wouldn't.

"Good for you," she observed smoothly now. Her eyes were smiling, as though she knew a secret. "And would you really be in the navy again?" she said. "Would you wear a uniform, and everything?"

He laughed at her. "Ah, women!"

"Um-hmm," said Rosalie, laughing back at him. "And 'Ah, men!' for that matter. I suppose you wouldn't be pretty pleased with yourself in a uniform again. Would it have a lot of gold braid on it, do you think? How much gold braid, in a case like that? What rank would you be?"

"I believe it's commensurate with age," Hobey said, "so to judge by the way I feel these days, I ought to be a hoary old Rear Admiral—retired. But actually I guess it doesn't quite amount to that. I think they said Lieutenant Commander, if I remember rightly."

"So you've talked to them!"

"Well, yes—a little."

"I knew you were up to something," Rosalie said. "Why didn't you tell me before?" She looked very pleased with him, and she tried the title over thoughtfully. "Lieutenant Commander Hadley. Very neat, that. Very nice indeed."

He nodded tentative agreement. "There's only one thing lacking."

"And that is. . . ?"

"Mrs. Lieutenant Commander Hadley," Hobey said, "—or in words of one syllable, you, and again you. And always you."

They were both still smiling. "Darling," Rosalie said, "are you proposing to me?"

"Yes. Again. Oh, definitely."

"Knowing all the while," said Rosalie, in her singing voice, "- knowing all the while that this time you'll be taken up on it?"

"Do you mean that?"

Now they were serious, suddenly and completely. "Oh, darling," Rosalie said. "Why are we here in public? I'm going to cry —I feel like crying my eyes out. First because I'm happy, and second because I love you, and third . . . Oh, for lots of reasons. Because I'm proud. Of course I want to go to Washington with you—I want to help, too, if I can, in some way. We feel alike about that. It's as though we were being given a second chance—our whole generation—and maybe you and I together can make something of our own chance, this time. And it's beginning now."

And so it was.

CHARGES CONGRESS PROTECTED BY WOOD GUNS, DECOY SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Members of congress are being protected "by wooden guns and decoy soldiers—believe it or not," Rep. Cooley (D) N. C., complained to his house colleagues today.

Cooley told the house in a brief speech that brought roars of laughter from the members that he recently climbed to the roof of the house office building to "inspect the defenses."

To his amazement, he said that he found the anti-aircraft guns there were made of wood. And the soldiers, he asserted, were "decoys" because they did not halt or question him even though he was in civilian clothing.

An then he asked:

"By the high heaven, why have they been placed over our heads?" (Cooley emphasized the word "our"). "When I put out decoys I expect to attract ducks. And when I put out wooden guns I expect to attract enemy planes."

"Gentlemen, it was a gruesome sight.

"It's a serious situation for decoys to be placed over our heads."

The same afternoon, Cooley continued, a soldier guarding the main entrance of the office building halted him and asked for his pass, "even though a dozen other doors are unguarded."

"I suppose they think that all the saboteurs are going to walk through the front door."

Cooley said that later he asked a member of the house military affairs committee if he knew what type guns were mounted on the nearby roof. The member replied, he said:

"Oh, they're 50-caliber anti-aircraft guns."

"I said, 'are you sure'," Cooley added that apparently "even the military affairs committee" didn't know about the "wooden guns."

Rep. Crawford (R) Mich., wound up the dissertation by inquiring if anyone knew "how many wooden congressmen we have around here?"

"I'm going to have more Fruits & Vegetables than my Ration Book allows"

FOR VICTORY BUY UNITED STATES WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

...AND I'M GOING TO DO IT THE PATRIOTIC WAY!

That's the spirit America needs right now. Even more than you know!

Very soon, you're coming right up against a problem that directly affects your family's welfare and the Nation's strength. You'll soon find you can't buy nearly as many canned fruits and vegetables as you'd like.

Yet our government says everyone must have plenty of fruits and vegetables—every single day. You must feed your family well—to keep America strong.

Just because you can't get all you need the easy way, does that mean you're going to give up? Not a bit of it!

If we know Americans, we think you'll say, "Well, I've still got my brains and my own two hands. I'll do my part. Let's go to work!"

Why the need is so great

As the world's largest canner of fruits and vegetables, Del Monte has gladly undertaken to save every pound of fruits and vegetables possible, and still maintain Del Monte Quality.

Last year's Del Monte pack was the largest in our history. But our armed forces needed about a third of it.

We hope to preserve even more foods this year. But well over half of them is already spoken for by the Government.

Dividing the rest among the homefolks doesn't leave the plenty you're used to.

That's why, it's up to you this year —if you want all the vegetables and fruits your family will need.

You can raise the vegetables we can't grow and can for you. You can put up the fruit from the single tree or small orchard we can't reach.

Naturally, we don't like to ask you to do this job. It's Del Monte's business to save you work. But this is an emergency!

That's why Del Monte advertising this spring and summer will urge American housewives to plant Victory Gardens. It will point out the need for putting up fruits at home. It will urge every American housewife to join in a cooperative nation-wide program to "Save the Surplus in 1943."

Here's how you can join:

1. Put in a Vegetable Garden—Use every bit of surplus ground. Grow fresh vegetables, to supplement the canned vegetables you buy.

2. Plan to put up fruit this Summer—Every jar of fruit you put up at home will stretch your family's ration and keep surplus fruit from going to waste.

Of course, you can't draw on just the finest crops, as Del Monte does. You can't do your canning right in the favored areas where each fruit grows best. You can't always be sure of the uniform quality you find in any Del Monte Product. But the job must be done—and you can do it well.

One caution, though. Fruits, because of their acidic nature, are relatively easy to can at home. But all classes of non-acid foods, including most vegetables, require special care and special equipment for sterilization. Don't can any product unless you follow approved methods exactly. For official instructions send 10¢ to Supt. of Documents, Washington, D. C., and get USDA Home Canning Bulletin No. 1762, or consult your State University or County Extension Service.

3. Buy rationed foods with special care—Choose the Del Monte Fruits and Vegetables you buy with your "points" so their quality and variety will count most in serving attractive wartime meals. Many of these fine products are interchangeable in use and health values. You can select the varieties with lower "point" values, and know their quality will please you.

Three other suggestions:

It's more important now to get the brands you know. If you prefer Del Monte, look for it. Make your "points" buy just as much real quality as they do quantity.

Also, you'll want to plan meals ahead and shop ahead to make your "points" go round.

And your grocer, more than ever, needs your help. Added to all his other wartime difficulties, he now has the double job of supplying you—and banking your ration "points" as well.

Only with your understanding help, can he give you the best possible service. So, shop early in the week—early in the day—and only as often as you must.

We'll be ready to save you all this bother again—when the war is won.

But until it is, what American woman will hesitate to do her part—if it's needed to keep her family better fed, and strong!

Enlist now!

MANSFIELD OHIO WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 24, 1943.

Even objectors must admit that the No. 2 rationing book has its points.

Dry cleaners advise that regularly cleaned garments will last twice as long—which suggests the slogan, "Grime doesn't pay."

Now it seems to be tea that has become so scarce that there isn't enough to ration—but the supply of sassafras bark will probably meet spring demands.

Fourth Term Talk Increasing

DISCUSSION as to whether or not President Roosevelt will be a candidate for a fourth term has become quite common around Washington and belief seems to be growing that this is the position that is now being jockeyed toward.

This matter was deemed of sufficient importance to gain mention by Capt. Rickenbacker yesterday in his address to a joint session of the New York state legislature—his comment being that "the inner clique of bureaucracy is thinking only of a fourth term."

Only a few years ago the idea of any man aspiring to the presidency for a fourth term would have been considered absurd, but it must be remembered that it was the THIRD term, not the FOURTH, that was assumed to present an insurmountable barrier, and that President Roosevelt overcame this obstacle to continuance in office more than eight years.

Another presidential election will come along next year, and it is unfortunate, but probably inescapable, that matters involving partisan politics should bob up at a time when the utmost in national unity of thought and action is needed for war tasks.

While such action would probably not be regarded as expedient, from a partisan standpoint, it would seem beneficial to have President Roosevelt speak as frankly on his intentions for next year, in the matter of fourth term candidacy, as was done this week by former President Herbert Hoover in announcing that he will not become a candidate for the presidency "under any circumstances."

As matters now stand, and despite all efforts to prevent it, both the legislative and executive branches of federal government are being too much influenced by political considerations to make near-approach to the all-out war effort that must be reached before victory can be assured.

Washington's birthday addresses in widely separated sections of the nation provided opportunities for New Deal Democrats to express approval of a fourth term, thus bringing the subject more into the open than it had theretofore been, and at least to the extent of warranting an expression of views by President Roosevelt.

It may at least be hoped that turning of public thought to next year's election, and to controversy over a fourth term, will not prevent sufficient concentration on war needs TO ASSURE THAT THERE WILL BE AN ELECTION NEXT YEAR.

Some Past and Present Delusions

COL. WILLARD CHEVALIER, publisher of Business Week magazine, told an audience of advertising men recently that America labored under four delusions before the war, and still, to too great extent, entertained the same ones.

"First, we belittled the economic resources of the enemy. We thought Germans war-weary and bankrupt, Japan too insignificant to worry about."

"Second, we thought we could not be attacked in our own homeland. But every time we go to the garage for our car, a toothy little Jap is there to tell us how far we can drive. In every oil-burning basement sits a Nazi storm-trooper warming us how much fuel we can burn. We've been attacked in our own homes."

It might be added that a Nazi submarine captain tells us how much sugar and coffee we must do without—not to mention bananas.

"Third and this false notion most of us still hold, we believe that our high standard of living must be maintained. I say extravagance must be curtailed if we are to keep this country, which our fighting boys and girls have left in our custody, as they want to find it when they return."

"Fourth, we thought we could improvise a military machine. We could drum up an army of trained fighters in short order, we boasted. Well, we've been at it two and a half years and our armed forces are just beginning to square off for action."

It is evident that Americans must cast off delusions and get down to facts.

One Mail Delivery On Saturdays

ANNOUNCEMENT that Saturday afternoon mail deliveries are to be stopped, after having been in effect for three weeks, will occasion no surprise—and probably no complaint.

It was the announcement a few weeks ago of intention to start a Saturday afternoon delivery that caused surprise—for there was no apparent reason for a change from the one delivery on Saturdays, to which people had been accustomed for many years.

It now appears that first instructions from Washington were foggy on the subject of what was to be done with the extra time provided by the change from 40 to 48 hours a week for federal employes, but that this has now been "clarified" — as is so often necessary with Washington instructions.

It is for the increase and improvement of service on other days of the week that the extra hours are designed, not for Saturday afternoon deliveries—so that point is cleared.

Broken Glass Is Dangerous

BROKEN GLASS on streets and roads seriously endangers automobile tires, and, under present conditions, should be given more attention than might otherwise be deemed necessary.

One instance in which broken glass was included in rubbish and garbage dumped on a roadway within the past few days fortunately resulted in arrest and punishment, but not until after at least one tire had been badly cut by contact with the glass.

The careless habit of allowing fragments of broken bottles to lie about indefinitely on sidewalks and at curbs alongside or near places where they were dropped after being emptied is also one that should be discouraged to the greatest possible extent.

It will seem rather odd, at that, to have the Nazis invading Poland from the Russian side.

Gandhi's Views Explained By Son, Mediation Still Believed Possible

(Editor's Note: Here's DeWitt MacKenzie's second article in the timely, interesting daily series on the crisis in India. In it he relates an unusual interview with Devadas Gandhi, the leader's son. MacKenzie, war analyst of the News-Journal, has been a close student of Indian affairs since 1916. He has just returned to this country from a six weeks' study of the situation there. Tomorrow, he writes on the dangerous food shortage in India.)

By DEWITT MKENZIE

THERE'S no shadow of doubt that Mahatma Gandhi's hunger-strike, perhaps to the death, has precipitated a most dangerous and far-reaching crisis in the bitter controversy over the scope of the independence which England has offered India.

Small wonder that Secretary of State Hull should have expressed American concern over the situation to British Ambassador Halifax in Washington. As I explained in yesterday's article, and now repeat for emphasis, this has ceased to be a family dispute. It has become a matter of vital importance to the Allied cause.

When I left India the other day it was with the conviction that this protracted and bloody quarrel was susceptible to settlement if there was even a modicum of give and take displayed by both sides.

I still believe that to be so, though admittedly Gandhi's strike has created a mountain of grave uncertainty.

To my mind, there is fresh support for my belief in the fact that my friend Sir Taj Bahadur Sapru, the famous moderate leader, is taking a hand in the affair. He heads the 200 Indian political figures who are meeting in Delhi to request the viceroy to release Gandhi.

The great Sapru comes into action when there is need of a mediator between the government and extremists. Thus his presence in Delhi seems to me to bespeak the spirit of conciliation and desire of settlement which I found in many high quarters.

Only a month ago Sir Taj said to me in his Allahabad home:

"I'm absolutely certain that the whole controversy could be solved amicably and without bitterness."

He explained, why, and you shall have his views in a later article. They mean something, coming from one of the broadest and soundest thinkers in all India.

The danger now is that Gandhi may die—in fact it seems likely that he will. We then shall have what many of India's four hundred millions will regard as a saintly martyrdom.

The little Mahatma is the greatest single influence in all that vast subcontinent. To uncounted hosts of adoring followers he is a Messiah, and none can foresee to what lengths the people might be stirred by his death, especially if he died under incarceration.

Of course, we shouldn't be so naive as to overlook that Gandhi's death would remove the Nationalists' anchor-man. That might weaken their position to the advantage of the government.

AS THINGS now stand, the next move would seem to be up to the government. It has the choice of two courses.

One is to release Gandhi, thereby making a gesture which might be taken as a display of weakness.

The other is to stand pat and run the obvious dangers attendant on the Mahatma's death.

It's a difficult decision for any government to make, and the hour-glass is emptying fast as it marks the span of the Mahatma's flickering life.

And what would happen if the government did release Gandhi and reopen the question? Well, I failed to find a single Indian leader who didn't regret the collapse of the Sir Stafford Cripps parleys last summer and who didn't want to see them resumed. On that basis there would be a quick response.

Most important of all I was informed that Gandhi himself, whose adherance to his ideals and policies sometimes borders on the obstinate, undoubtedly would be willing to make concessions, provided there was a transfer of power from British to Indian hands.

This information came from Gandhi's distinguished son Devadas, who is managing editor of the nationally important Hindustan Times, published in New Delhi.

WE WERE sitting in Devadas' office, discussing the breakdown of negotiations last summer:

"What the world wants to know now is Mahatma Gandhi's position regarding future negotiations," I said bluntly. "How far would your father go, providing negotiations were reopened?"

"I think I know the answer to your question," he replied, "and, perhaps, I can give you my father's position. I feel I know what it is.

"I believe that Gandhiji (the suffix "ji" is a designation of respect) would stoutly oppose any idea of negotiations from jail.

"I believe he would say he was jailed at a time when he was planning a conciliatory move, and the whole responsibility for the recent tragic happenings (the widespread disorders) rested on the shoulders of the government.

"It is for the government to restore the pre-arrest position before any satisfactory talks can be undertaken."

"Well, now," I suggested, "let us say that we have Gandhiji out of prison and that the British government has reopened the case. On what basis can your father discuss the issue?"

"I have no doubt," replied Devadas cautiously, "he would say that what would be acceptable to Nehru would be acceptable to him." (Jawahrlal Nehru is the outstanding political figure of India, a staunch adherent of Gandhi, and a leader of the All-India congress which Gandhi dominates and which stands for complete independence from England.)

"Isn't that tantamount to saying that what would be acceptable to the All-India congress would be acceptable to the Mahatma?" I asked.

"Yes," nodded the editor," but I mentioned this because Nehru's bona fides are not so readily questioned in some British circles.

"My father would want an unequivocal declaration of India's independence now. He would be accommodating on matters of detail and war direction if he could be convinced of the genuineness of the British desire to set India free."

Sad Record of Rubber Production Reveals Amazing Series of Delays

WASHINGTON—One of Washington's most closely guarded secrets is the detailed history of rubber production. Reason for the secrecy is not military. Rubber Czar Jeffers has just released what must be comforting news to the enemy that we shall have only 100,000 tons of rubber by the end of this year, and Bernie Baruch estimated we needed a minimum reserve of 120,000.

Actually the reason is political. With 130,000,000 Americans virtually taken off wheels, certain high-up individuals are anything but anxious to have the details on rubber production leak out. However, here is the actual record on one of the saddest and most inexcusable chapters in our economic history.

In June 1940, one year and a half before Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt ordered an immediate study of the synthetic rubber industry to prepare for possible Jap invasion of the Dutch East Indies. That study was turned over to Edward Stettinius of the National Defense commission, who on July 13, 1940, recommended the immediate need of building synthetic rubber plants and reported to the president: "It is expected that before this month is over a plan of synthetic rubber production will have been worked out which in the future will eliminate our dependence upon imports."

What Stettinius referred to was the fact that Emil Schram of Jesse Jones' Reconstruction Finance corporation was negotiating with Goodrich and the Phillips corporation to produce 100,000 tons of rubber. But Stettinius did not know, when he wrote his report, that Jesse Jones, Schram's superior, would block the deal.

This Jones did. And for seven months, Stettinius and various other defense officials, fumed, fretted and tore their hair, until finally on Feb. 19, 1941, Jones announced that the RFC "still had under consideration" plans for aiding the production of synthetic rubber, though he said the need was not urgent and possibly, ultimately unnecessary.

Before Pearl Harbor.

ONE YEAR later, March 21, 1942, Secretary Jones issued a statement which caused amazement on the part of his cabinet colleagues. He said that "On May 16, 1941, we concluded agreements with some of the leading producers of rubber, chemicals and oil products for the construction and operation of synthetic rubber sufficient to increase the total annual capacity in the country to approximately 100,000 tons."

This statement was made after Pearl Harbor, though it referred to action allegedly taken before Pearl Harbor. And the reason it amazed Jones' cabinet colleagues, was that actually in May, 1941, he had authorized capacity not for 100,000 tons, but for the mere driblet of 10,000 tons.

The four copolymer plants he authorized before Pearl Harbor were planned with the understanding that each would design a 10,000 ton plant, but that actually equipment for a capacity of only 2,500 tons would be installed in each plant. In other words, the four plants, operating at 2,500 tons each, would net the nation the meager total of 10,000 tons—against a need in 1941 which had already risen to over 700,000 tons and which Bernie Baruch estimated should be 1,000,000 tons in 1944.

As Pearl Harbor approached and the Japanese menace which Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt for months had mentioned in cabinet meetings increased in tension, Jones gradually began to wake up. He ordered the four rubber companies to disregard their previous limit of 2,500 tons capacity and go up to 10,000 each.

After Pearl Harbor.

BUT all these things, plus the genial Jesse's complacency, delayed the program so that ground for only three rubber factories was broken before Pearl Harbor and one afterwards.

Even after Pearl Harbor, Mr. Jones continued his easy optimism. On Jan. 16, when our military leaders had reported to the cabinet that the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies probably could not be held, Jesse estimated that with care and prudence the nation could get along on about 450,000 tons of rubber a year for both war and civilian purposes.

Remindful that the 1941 consumption had been 750,000 tons, he pointed out that the pre-war figures was only 600,000 tons and that the halt on manufacturing automobiles would reduce the civilian demand for tires. He also made the cheering prediction that in about eighteen months—or by June, 1943—there would be enough rubber to provide new automobile tires to the public.

We are now within four months of June, 1943, and Mr. Jeffers has just warned the nation that not until after March, 1944, would we begin to see daylight on rubber.

Again on Feb. 3, 1942, Jones optimistically informed the house banking committee that we would be getting "all the rubber we needed from the Dutch East Indies by the end of 1943 despite the present Japanese threat to that area." This was at a time when the Japs already had landed in part of the islands, and only one month before Batavia, the capital, fell.

Also on Feb. 3, 1942, Jesse stated that 90,000 tons of synthetic rubber would be produced by the end of 1942. In contrast, Mr. Jeffers has now announced that not a pound of synthetic rubber came from a government plant through January, 1943.

Reason for Failure.

REASON for this failure was first the fact that the rubber factories urged by Stettinius and Schram nearly two years before, were not built. Making synthetic rubber is a difficult process. It requires trial and experimentation. That was why Stettinius urged that the plants be built early.

Second reason was continued procrastination. Despite optimistic statements immediately after Pearl Harbor, actual construction work on only one-fourth of the government's butadiene plants was begun by June 1, 1942. Roughly three-fourths of the program was not begun until after June, six months after Pearl Harbor.

This was also true of Jesse's additional copolymer plants. Three-fourths of them were begun after June, 1942. Most of them actually did not get started until around September, nine months after Pearl Harbor — by which time the Baruch committee had taken rubber completely out of Jesse's hands.

THE TUNISIAN FRONT—(By Wireless)—Little cameos of war:

Most of the preliminary battles between Axis and American troops in Tunisia during the past two months have been for possession of mountain passes leading to eastern Tunisia. In one of these battles our men had worked their way up to the mouth of a pass on one side and the Italians had done the same on the other side. There they lay, well dug in, not more than 200 yards apart. They were separated by previously laid mine fields over which neither dared to pass. So they just lay there, each side waiting for some action from the other.

ERNIE PYLE

The Italians began sending over notes to the Americans. I've heard many stories of such happenings in the last war, but it is rare in this one.

The Italians would send over a note telling the Americans they were badly outnumbered and didn't have a chance and had better surrender right now. The Americans would send back a note saying, "Go to hell, you lousy spaghetti eaters. We'll tear your cars off before this is over."

The reason I'm telling this story is that these notes, with perfect incongruousness, were carried back and forth through the mine fields by a small Arab boy who happened to wander past and took on the job for a few francs!

THE other day we drove past a big bivouack of supply trucks on the desert a few minutes after some German planes had dive-bombed and strafed them. The soldiers all took to foxholes and nobody was hurt, but three trucks were set afire. The soldiers got two fires out immediately, but the third was hopeless, for it was a big truck loaded with scores of five-gallon tins of gasoline. These would explode and scatter flaming debris.

Then suddenly there was a bigger explosion and one lone gasoline tin went shooting straight up into the air all by itself. That can rose majestically to a height of about 400 feet, gradually slowed down until it seemed to pause motionless for a moment in the sky, then came plunging straight down. Its explosive flight had been so straight up and down that when it fell it grazed the side of the truck not five feet from where it had started.

Some little thing like that—the uncanny straightness of a tin can's war journey—often stays in your mind for ages after the memory of horror or bravery has dimmed and passed.

ANOTHER time Don Coe, of the United Press, and I stayed all night at a general's forward command post a few miles back from a pass where fighting was going on.

We were in a big farmyard. Trucks and jeeps were parked around the edge of the lot under trees. We picked out a vacant spot and threw our bedrolls on the ground. We rolled a jeep in front of us to keep trucks from running over us in the blackout while we slept.

There is something good about sleeping outdoors. For a long time we lay back, rolled tight in our blankets, looking straight up into the sky. There were millions of stars, and every few seconds one of them would fall.

A couple of times stars went shooting horizontally across the heavens. The sky at night is a majestic and inspiring thing, yet we have to come to far-off Africa and sleep on the ground in order to see and feel it.

After a while we went to sleep. The next thing I knew a gruff voice was saying:

"What the hell is this jeep doing out here in the open like this?"

I peeked one eye out and saw that it was just daylight and that the voice was no less than that of the general, out on an early morning inspection prowl. Whereupon I shut my eyes quickly and let Don handle the situation.

The general made a few more choice remarks before Don got his sleepy head out of the blankets. Then all of a sudden the general said:

"Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't realize it was you. Forget it. Everything's all right."

I lay very still, pretending to be asleep, and chuckling to myself. Later in the day the general apologized to me too, but I was sorry he did and told him so, for we had done something very thoughtless which endangered other people as well as ourselves. And the fact that we were correspondents instead of soldiers didn't excuse us.

But at least we learned our lesson. We won't leave jeeps showing after daylight again.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

The Sugar Bush

THE WOODS edge had a bluish haze. A jay screamed, and a titmouse tilted impatiently on the wild cherry, awaiting his mate. Snow still lay in the hollows and the corners of the worm fence, but a south wind blew and from sheer joy of the season promised, I walked far into the woods and searched for the earliest spring buds.

Beneath damp mould of decaying leaves, flattened crowns of dandelion, of thistle and of soft fuzzy mullein were greening. In the valley just beyond, I heard a farmer urging on his team.

When I reached the summit of the hill and looked across far toward the other hill, I saw him standing on a low-built drag amidst several columns of buckets. Plainly he was headed for the sugar grove. I observed his rusty, double bitted ax, a brace and bit, and an endless string of metal spiles hung about one pail. The short-haired spotted terrier followed after, nosing far and wide for mice and chipmunk burrows.

With caution, he drove through the gate and down the rutty lane that led to the hollow of the sugar house. Here, to a small sapling, he tied the team, got out the brace and bit and drew the line of spiles across his left shoulder.

I arrived in time to see the first white chips fall lightly from the keen augur and sift down into the moss between the large surface roots. More than an inch deep he bored before he reversed the bit. And with it moisture followed fast. Quickly with light hammer blows he drove in the spile. A stream of sap traced down the metal groove and flowed in windblown trickles upon the moss. Then he hooked the pail upon the firm-set spile and I heard the sap drip in heavy drops upon the bottom.

"This is the tenth year I've tapped this grove," he told me. "I been waitin' for a day like this, to start. If it keeps on freezin' and thawin' I'll have a good run.

We worked for 20 minutes or so then returned to the first tree. He took the bucket down and proffered me a drink of the collected sugar water—almost a quart already. It had the flavor of first springtime and I had the rare delight of listening to the sound of liquid dripping into more than 20 pails each with varying depth of water. Such rhythm and concord of sweet sound—such sprightly odors upon the clear crisp air can only be found in a sugar bush at the tapping season. I shall return again when steam rolls heavily from the roof of the rustic sugar house and take along a jar—for he tells me the usual gallon tin containers cannot be bought this year.

CARELESSNESS RESPONSIBLE IN FIRE AT PLANT

That's Ruling of Probers In Hartman Blaze; Chimney Fire Reports Hit.

Attributing nearly all fires to carelessness and deploring the practice of turning in an alarm before it is determined whether or not a chimney burning out will ignite a structure, fire department officials today revealed that federal-state-city investigations had disclosed that the Hartman Electric company blaze has been charged entirely to "carelessness."

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger said that army and navy authorities dismissed their sabotage inquiry after the plant fireman and several other employes related full details of the early moments of the fire which swept the war-producing plant at East Fifth and North Diamond streets the night of Jan. 12. Loss was estimated at $75,000.

The company is operating in temporary quarters, turning out electrical equipment for the armed forces, and plans are being drafted for a modern structure which will accommodate a great production expansion.

Investigators were told, after inspections showed no breaks or other faults in the heating equipment, that a huge clinker had been raked from a furnace and tossed onto a wheelbarrow, a live coal breaking loose and falling into a pile of paper nearby.

The fireman summoned two or three other plant employes who had not yet left the building after the 5 p. m quitting time, and this crew fought the flames for several minutes before one thought of turning in an alarm.

"The delayed alarm undoubtedly proved the costliest feature of the fire," Chief Seeburger declared. Nearly every city fireman was on duty for eight hours in a futile attempt to save the three-story structure and they did succeed in keeping flames from much of the machinery and from vaults holding invaluable gauges and dies.

Fire officials stressed that they do not wish householders to delay turning in an alarm whenever any structure is threatened but they do assert that many "runs" could be avoided by a more patient or closer observation of chimney burn-outs. Officials point out that tire and gasoline rationing restrictions, while not materially reducing the privileges of the fire department, must be considered in the fire-fighting program.

False alarms, they say, will result in drastic punishment of the offenders if caught. Several have been turned in this year, three from the same downtown box since the first of January.

Her second song was "The Way-Worn Traveller" from the opera "The Mountaineers" by Samuel Arnold. "The Way-Worn Traveller" is said to have been one of George Washington's favorite songs.

HEALTH CLUB PLANS WARTIME SCHEDULE

Mrs. Julia Kiene, Manager of Defense Nutrition and Home Economics Department to Plan Schedules for Working Women.

AS A RESULT of Manpower Director Paul V. McNutt's outlook that six million American women will have war production jobs and thirteen million will hold civilian jobs in 1943, and that most of these women must manage homes and safeguard their families' health, the Westinghouse Health for Victory club will focus its attention on the subject "Women on Double Duty," at the meeting Thursday afternoon to be held at the plant auditorium.

Most of the members of the club are women who devote most of their time to managing their homes, watching over the welfare of their families, and shouldering additional jobs such as Red Cross work, to aid the war effort.

Mrs. Julia Kiene, manager of the defense nutrition and home economics department, will answer questions at the meeting to help plan the best possible utilization of members' time. "Housewives throughout the nation have had to make radical changes in their daily schedules, just as war plants and workers have, and more changes are bound to come, Mrs. Kiene points out.

A readjustment in homemakers' schedules particularly in their homes where there are children, is inevitable. Gasoline rationing has made it necessary for women to plan their food buying in such a way that a minimum of motoring is required. Women can no longer count on grocery stores making daily deliveries to their homes.

Shortages and rationing of certain foods containing vitamins and minerals essential to health have caused housewives to turn to food "pinch-hitters" that provide the same elements. In many cases, this has meant that women are dealing with foods with which they have had little cooking experience.

"All these things add up to the necessity of reorganizing the home schedule," Mrs. Kiene explains. "That is why Health for Victory members in Mansfield and throughout the nation are going to work out systematic ways to continue doing a good job of running our homes and safeguarding our families' health during changing wartime conditions."
